Suicide & Self-Harm Stopping the Pain

Day 1: Thursday, September 26, 2019

Your client just revealed that she's having suicidal thoughts...what do you do? Does she have a gun? Has she written letters? Picked a location? Have hope something will change and doesn't want to hurt family and friends?

Asking your client, "where do you hurt?" often reveals the focus of the suicidal intent or the purpose of self-harm behaviors. As a clinician, it's important to remember that even though you view suicide and self-harm behaviors as dysfunctional and maladaptive, your client views them as purpose-driven means of eliminating or managing unbearable levels of pain. For your client, these behaviors are beneficial, attractive, and helpful.

Even the most seasoned therapists struggle to develop an empathic view of their client's devastating methods of managing emotional pain. Learning how to help clients discover the sources of their pain and providing them with healthy options for solving and managing these struggles in their lives is the

- 2. Analyze the concept of suicide "contracts" and communicate their impacts on clients, clinicians, and clinical vigilance.
- 3. Explain how intent differentiates self-mutilation from suicide attempts and accurately identify the one form of self-mutilation that is a warning sign for potential suicide completion.
- 4. Implement techniques for effectively intervening in crisis situations and develop a strategy for determining when and how to hospitalize clients.
- 5. Articulate the role of addictions in the suicidal and self-mutilating population and employ a multi-faceted therapeutic approach that ensures client safety and addresses treatment of the addiction.
- 6. Determine the purpose behind self-injuring behavior and communicate how alternative coping strategies can be introduced in therapy to help clients manage triggering situations without engaging in self-harm.

Using the DSM-5[®] to Revolutionize Diagnosis & Treatment

Day 2: Friday, September 27, 2019

The arrival of the DSM-5® sent shockwaves through the mental health profession that are still being felt today. The DSM-5® had greatly changed the way we view, diagnose, and treat mental illness.

In this seminar, national speaker, author, and DSM® expert Jack Klott sheds light on the rationale behind the changes in the DSM-5® and the impact they have on certain diagnoses and, most important, on the way you diagnose. You will discover how to effectively use the DSM-5® to enhance your case conceptualization and treatment planning. You will explore those diagnostic categories and classifications that received the most dramatic reformulations and thus also the most controversy.

In many ways the DSM-5® enhances our understanding of the person we treat as it goes beyond a simple focus on behaviors. This seminar showcases this and the implications on treatment.

Objectives

- 1. Describe the special and controversial features of the DSM-5® which sets it apart from previous versions of the manual.
- 2. Examine DSM-5'®s diagnostic categories, their symptom criteria, and why some were changed.
- 3. Analyze the focus on vulnerability to suicide found within the Trauma and Stress Related Disorders section of the DSM-5°.
- 4. Explain the Severity Index and how it is used to validate diagnosis, direct focus of treatment, and evaluate treatment efficacy.
- 5. Discuss the DSM-5°'s expanded and comprehensive approach to suicide and self-mutilation.
- 6. Analyze how to best use the DSM-5® throughout the case conceptualization and treatment planning process.

Jack Klott, MSSA, LCSW, CSWW, Suicidologist, and national speaker has helped and educated tens of thousands in his 45 years of suicide and self-harm client work. Jack is a 35-year member of the American Association of Suicidology and was a founder of the Michigan Association of Suicidology (where he has been recognized for his contribution to suicide prevention in Michigan). He authored the national best-sellers The Suicide and Homicide Risk Assessment and Prevention Treatment Planner (Wiley, 2004), The Co-Occurring Disorders Treatment Planner (Wiley, 2006), and Suicide and Psychological Pain: Prevention That Works (PESI Publishing & Media, 2012). He is a popular and sought after seminar speaker on suicide prevention, motivational interviewing, co-occurring disorders and the DSM®. Attendees rave about his unique teaching gift of weaving expertise, passion and compassion into practical, understandable and usable information.
